

CATARRH SUFFERERS.

Good Thing to Know How to Get Instant Relief.

If you now own a Hyomei hard rubber inhaler W. H. Sheldon wants you to know that he will sell you a bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents.

Remember this, all who suffer with catarrh—a bottle of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) is put up in a separate package and sold for 50 cents, to accommodate the vast army of people who already own a Hyomei inhaler.

W. H. Sheldon will sell it to you at that price and give you the opportunity to begin at once to rid yourself of your catarrh and the snuffling, hawking and spitting that go with it.

Many people through years of neglect have let catarrh get a strong hold upon them. Some of these people unreasonably think that one bottle of HYOMEI ought to cure them.

They do not stop to think that a diseased condition that is the result of negligence, cannot be overcome in a week.

No matter how chronic your catarrh troubles, HYOMEI is guaranteed by W. H. Sheldon to cure them if you give it half a chance. Just breathe it, that's all, and its healing, soothing, antiseptic properties will make you feel better in a day.

If you own an inhaler get a 50 cent bottle of HYOMEI at W. H. Sheldon today. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, which consists of an inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI and simple instructions for use. This complete outfit costs $1.00, but you then have an inhaler that will last a lifetime.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in our family."

Kodol Digests What You Eat. Relieves only. Relieves indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas, etc.

THE ROOSTER'S BATH.

Modern rooster residences are equipped with a double bathtub—dust and sun bath.

Dust for crawlers, sun for that grouchy feeling.

Biddy fills her feathers with dust to smother the lice, rises, shakes, and oh, the dust!

When it's louse powder, you yell "There's all that high priced stuff wasted!"

Not so. That's her trick to shake off the dead and stunted lice.

Dry road dust for the bath.

Sulphur, louse killer and lime mixed with it are wasted.

Lime burns the skin, irritates the air passages, bleaches shanks and spoils plumage.

There are times when it is necessary to dust with louse killer.

Long tailed roosters are often averse to getting down in the dust.

Pure Persian insect powder is best for lice.

Head lice are hardest to kill.

Best ointment for this is a block of camphor melted in a half pound of lard.

IN THE DUST BATH.

Gasoline rubbed on head and hackle and under wings is dandy, but fowl must be placed in open air to recover from dizziness.

Use kerosene for mites and corrosive sublimate diluted for ticks.

Nature affords dust and sun bath together in summer; it is up to you to furnish them in winter. If not your flock will show their affliction by rolling in dusty litter and droppings. A box 3 by 3 and a foot deep, placed near a sunny window, will accommodate fifty hens.

Sun is beneficial to poultry. It affords light, warmth, kills germs and gives life and luster to plumage. Place your windows low on south side. At least have four double sash to every forty feet. Such a window one and one-half feet from the floor will throw sunlight enough.

Note our goose snoozing in the sun. A wise and happy goose. He loves sunshine. He will have it, freckles or no freckles. That goose knows a good thing when he sees it. Do you?

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Philadelphia's show exhibited a $10,000 hen, and Scranton, Pa., had one worth $12,000. If such an estimate made them worth the money it would not look so funny, but, oh, what a block of highly watered stock!

Chicago is said to have 500,000 stray cats. Great guns! How did they escape the beef bologna trust? Must be a great place to raise chickens with half a million fierce felines around.

At Washington a Baltimore firm was convicted for selling ground shells for pepper. Time for some one to arrest those swindlers who sell ground oyster shells for chick feed.

Those little early quacks will often be asking, "Mother, may I go out to swim?" Even boiled and filtered water kills them if they swim before their feathers mature.

While the cackling of geese saved Rome, the quacking of ducks so frightened the team of E. N. Williams, a Kansas huckster, that they ran off, and he was killed.

Jack and Jill, the first two chickens ever hatched from a single egg, were exhibited at the state poultry show at St. Louis. What else can be expected in such a double header state?

A rooster's tail on an actor playing rooster in a French play weighs twenty-seven pounds. He ought to play in "All's Well That Ends Well," or swell.

If you want a location where poultry feed is free, go to the Red Sea. There, in 1880, locusts covered 2,000 square miles of land, and their weight was estimated at 42,850,000,000 tons. Now, think of all that fowl feed going to waste.

Watch Your Shoulders.

When standing before a looking glass notice if your shoulders are the same height. Generally the right is higher than the left. The reason for this unevenness lies in the way one sits. You get into a comfortable chair at your desk, and at once you rest your right elbow on the arm of your chair or your desk, thus throwing one shoulder higher than the other. This is especially the case where one writes a great deal. When you notice that one shoulder is higher than the other the thing to do is to change your way of sitting at your desk. Two simple exercises will be beneficial. The arm of the lower shoulder should be extended upward, the hand grasping a dumbbell. That of the higher shoulder should be lowered and made to support a heavy weight.

The Sleep of Seeds.

Oats, corn, fennel and some flower seeds were exposed during 118 days to a temperature of 40 degrees F. below zero. Afterward when placed in suitable surroundings nearly all of the fennel, oat and corn seeds and many of the others germinated. It is concluded that the protoplasm, or the principle of life, in a resting seed is in a state of inaction not comparable to that of a smoldering fire, but rather like that of a chemical mixture which is capable of forming a combination whenever the required conditions of temperature and illumination are present.

Safe From Poisonous Serpents.

A physician who spent some time in the countries bordering on the gulf of Mexico found a curious body of men among the natives called curados de calebra, or the safe from vipers. Having been inoculated with the poison of the serpents, they were proof against their venomous bites. The inoculation was made with the venom tooth of a viper and the bulb of a native plant called mano del sapo (toad's hand). The preventive inoculation has been an old custom among the natives of that region.

The English Manor House Bathroom.

A writer in the American Magazine gives the following directions by which a visitor may always find the household bathroom in an old English manor house:

"The household bathroom may be reached by descending the narrow stone steps from the second floor back of the north battlement. Follow the fall in a southeasterly direction until you come to the armor gallery, then turn sharply to the left and follow the corridor to the top. Open the door at the end of this long hall and take a half flight of stone steps (Oliver Cromwell once kissed a serving maid in this dark passage) on the right and pass into the open hall at the end. You will easily discover the bathroom, because it is the fourth door from the mullion window, a beautiful piece of glass of Charles II.'s time."

Didn't Like Course Dinners.

A colored woman, native of the south, had been working for a flat dwelling family of moderate means in the east end, but resigned recently to accept a place bringing higher wages with a wealthy family who live in a large house on Euclid heights and have their dinner served in courses every night just as if there was company. This colored woman had been brought up to put everything on the table at once, with the exception possibly of the dessert, and did not take kindly to the course system. A few days ago her former mistress met her on the street and inquired how she liked her new place.

"Oh, not very well," she replied. "I don't like this way of eatin' things in courses. The too much shiftn' of the dishes for the fewness of the vittles."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Scotsman's English.

A true specimen of the highland man's difficulties with the English language:

Farmer (who had instructed his Gaelic shepherd to look for a number of sheep that had wandered from the fold)—Well, Donald, have you found them?

"Where did you get them?"

"Well, got two by itself, one together and three among one of McPhearson's."—London News.

Growing Bananas.

Bananas are, as a rule, planted out systematically in rows, the "suckers" being placed at an average of ten feet apart. The banana plant bears only one bunch at a time, but it is a quick grower, yielding its fruit in twelve to fourteen months. When the plant is about six months old a second "sucker" or shoot is allowed to spring from the root, a third after the ninth month, and so on, so that after the first year there is a continuous crop being reaped.

Books.

For the greater part of its life a book is an article of furniture and stands upon the shelf to decorate the library with its patch of color and glow of kindly associations, but from time to time there occur those crises of its existence when it is taken down and read.—London Athenaeum.
